

Press Release-- For immediate distribution

Kevin Oviatt Earns CVA

Kevin Oviatt, a Certified Public Accountant at McGill, Power, Bell & Associates has earned the Certified Valuation Analyst (CVA) designation.

In his announcement, Parnell Black, MBA, CPA, CVA the Executive Director of the National Association of Certified Valuation Analysts noted, "The designation is an indication to the business, professional and legal communities, that Kevin Oviatt has met NACVA's rigorous standards of professionalism, expertise, objectivity, and integrity in the field of business valuation, litigation support, and related consulting disciplines."

To become accredited, the candidate is required to successfully complete an intensive training and testing process.

Business valuations are most commonly required during succession planning, sale of business, mergers or acquisitions and for Estate and Gift Tax planning.

Litigation support is provided in cases of divorce, partner disputes, business disruptions and bankruptcy.